

MiniTUBE 2.0 for Rosa2012Its. & Rosa 2012.1.

Minitube is a native YouTube client. With it you can watch YouTube videos in a new way: you type a keyword, Minitube gives you an endless video stream.

Minitube does not require the Flash Player.

Minitube is not about cloning the original Youtube web interface, it strives to create a new TV-like experience.

Minitube 2.0 is here! It brings new major features, usability enhancements and bug fixes. But above all, after many releases dedicated to polishing the overall experience.

Try it, report your experience in the comments and spread the word.

For more info goto: <http://flavio.tordini.org/>

- Progs:
- minitube-2.0-69-mib2012.1.x86_64.rpm

What's new?

Here's the complete changelog:

-
- YouTube categories and "standard feeds": "Most Popular", "Featured", etc
- Country selection for YouTube categories and feeds
- Autoupdate on Mac and Windows
- Related videos
- Related videos are now appended when pasting a YouTube link
- Bigger and nicer 16:9 thumbnails
- "Show 10 More" with a single click
- Play video in the playlist with a single click on its thumbnail
- Disk cache for video thumbnails
- OS X Notification Center notifications on video start
- Ubuntu Ambiance theme integration
- Fixed some YouTube links not working when pasted in the searchbox
- Fixed playlist drag'n'drop
- Fixed system language settings detection
- Fixed clicking on channel names not working in some cases
- Fixed incorrect number of downloads in status bar
- Fixed looping video with Phonon VLC backend on Linux
- New and updated translations

Screenshots:

